How Many Hoosiers Can $1 Million Help? What You Should Know

FSSA uses its $5.5 billion budget to help millions of Hoosier families, children, elderly and people with disabilities receive the services and assistance they desperately need. There's no argument that $5.5 billion is a lot of money... but what can "just" $1 million do?

Well, for $1 million, thousands of Hoosiers would receive services that they might otherwise go without. Others could come off waiting lists that they've been sitting on for years. And still more could finally receive the assistance they need to get their family medical care or keep a job.

Who could be helped with $1 million? You might be surprised...

For one year (and for any one of the following populations) this sum would provide:

- 667 children health care coverage.
- 273 pregnant women appropriate pre-natal care.
- 364 Hoosier seniors prescription drug benefits for one year.
- 50 individuals with traumatic brain injuries the necessary services they need.
- 138 individuals services through CHOICE.
- 300 children full-time, licensed day care.
- 1,400 Hoosiers job retention services.
- 98 seniors the support services necessary for them to remain in their own homes, instead of entering nursing homes or other institutions.
- 2,666 Hoosier families a Healthy Families Indiana Assessment to help prevent abuse and neglect problems before they happen.

FSSA serves Indiana's most vulnerable citizens. And during our state's difficult economic times, more and more Hoosiers need assistance.

Our clients are not asking for a handout. They turn to FSSA to keep their children insured and healthy, their parents independent and secure and their family members with disabilities cared for and safe.

Millions of Hoosiers receive assistance from FSSA each year. And $1 million can help thousands of Hoosiers in countless ways.
